The Third Test With skipper Warburton ruled out of the third Test through injury, he was replaced as captain by lock Alun Wyn Jones with the Lions delivering in style in Sydney. New ground broken The 1899 Tour was the first to be made exclusively to Australia and there was no need for extra Australian Rules games. The Lions made an instant impression winning all four of their opening Tour games including a 64-14 thrashing of Mpumalanga.

The scoreline at the Wanderers was 17-8, with Hancock scoring a brilliant try in the second half, while the series was sealed at the Athletic Grounds in Kimberley — although it was not all plain sailing there for the Lions. Unfortunately, in keeping with the theme of the era, the Lions were hit by injury thereafter.
