National blessings an argument for reformation: A sermon, preached at Aberdeen, November 29, 1759. ... By Alexander Gerard, ... on Apple Books

It is recorded of the father of this large family that he was respected for piety, prudence, and benevolence, inheriting from his ancestors simplicity of manners, and literary tastes which, without attracting the notice of the world, engaged his leisure and dignified his rural life. Clement's Parish Church, Aberdeen, in succession to the late Rev.

Allocation of desks to various trades 25. Dr Gregory was one of the celebrated Gregory family, Professor of Medicine in King's College, sent for from Aberdeen ; and Dr Gordon was Dr James Gordon, Professor of Medicine in Marischal College. And we have 2,300 of those sermons still intact.

Crowded with Genius: The Scottish Enlightenment: Edinburgh's Moment of the Mind

It is impossible without contradiction to express a philosophy which destroys intelligible expression; virtually dismissing as absurdities all personal pronouns, all substantive nouns, and all verbs; leaving abstract adjectives as the only parts of speech;—and, as such adjectives are really unintelligible, leaving us the speechless and motionless victims of philosophical suicide.
