Since 2017 the game consists of four periods of 15 minutes with a 2-minute break after every period, and a 15-minute intermission at half time before changing ends. Throughout each stage of the skill see image 4 , the centre of gravity remains within the wide base of support provided by the muscle of the lower extremities, providing the balance necessary as the body moves forward and rotates during the slap hit. The pitch is a 91.

To create this momentum, the principle of force summation is applied during the skill. A similar field hockey or ground billiards variant, called suigan, was played in China during the 1368—1644, post-dating the Mongol-led. Field hockey goals also include sideboards and a backboard, which stand 50 cm 20 in from the ground.

To do this, defensive players can make sure they stay between the offensive player and the goal at all times. This led to the International Federation of Women's Hockey Association IFWHA in 1927, though this did not include many continental European countries where women played as sections of men's associations and were affiliated to the FIH. The longer they wait, the more likely the defense will have time to block the shot or hit the ball away.
