Anderson County, South Carolina Genealogy Guide

On February 10, 1863, R. Desolate, they mourned-all the brightness had been blotted out of their lives, but unsearchable are the Providence of God, for it was then that these two stricken sorrowing parents determined to unite in so disposing of all they had left of their property as to bring to their fellowmen as much happiness and prosperity as they could have wished for themselves. John Miller was elected clerk of the court.

Anna sold her share to Floride Calhoun.

History of Pendleton SC (c.1790)

Billups, Recorder In the land records of Jackson County and on the United States Census records, Huldy is always listed as Margaret H. Said land on south side of Little Saluda River. Her love for her home and country was superb, and to this noble, generous and yet gentle woman, South Carolina is as much indebted for Clemson College as to the distinguished husband, Thomas G.
