India Day

The British government announced on 3 June 1947 that it had accepted the idea of partitioning British India into two states; the successor governments would be given status and would have an implicit right to secede from the. With a war-weary army and people and a ravaged economy, Britain would have had to retreat; the Labour victory only quickened the process somewhat. These events celebrate the culture, traditions, and languages of Native Americans that all Americans enjoy today The day also encourages public elementary and secondary schools to educate students about the history, achievements, and contributions of Native Americans by providing classroom instructions and activities.
