Developing an Effective Child Abuse Prevention Message

When considering solutions, due regard shall be paid to the desirability of continuity in a child's upbringing and to the child's ethnic, religious, cultural and linguistic background. For the most part, the more intense and prolonged programs were more effective than short-term programs in reducing the prevalence of child maltreatment. In this case, as in many others, what is required of CPS programs is to prevent serious harm to a child following an accepted CPS report.

News

The child shall have the right to freedom of expression; this right shall include freedom to seek, receive and impart information and ideas of all kinds, regardless of frontiers, either orally, in writing or in print, in the form of art, or through any other media of the child's choice.

OHCHR

However, intermediate risk families had slightly higher rates of repeated maltreatment than high risk families, even among families determined to need services. This holistic approach enables systems to better manage risks — such as the risks and vulnerabilities of teachers — and to manage the complex power dynamics and institutional weaknesses that open individuals up to exploitation and abuse. Our offices are open from 9am to 5.

Child Protective Services

Based on a survey of county human services directors, we estimated that Minnesota counties received about 50,000 allegations of child maltreatment in 1996. Following an investigation, county agencies are also required by law to determine whether the investigated family needs protective services.

News

In addition the policy should prohibit internal investigation and should provide rules for such things as the handling of information and protection of privacy, restriction from ministry involvement of the suspected abuser, and ministry to the victim and his or her family.
