However, the association of intense outburst of color and emotion with his quasi-religious enlightenment is a primitive concept. Jawlensky and other members of the group are actively appropriating elements from folk art and including it into their own works.

Jawlensky, Young Girl in a Flowered Hat (video)

As a member of Der Blaue Reiter, Alexej von Jawlensky believed that art was a means of expressing spirituality. In 1922, Jawlensky married Werefkin's former maid Hélène Nesnakomoff, the mother of his only son, , who was born before their marriage. Entonces comienza una etapa de experimentación que le lleva a adentrarse en las Variaciones, un proyecto con el que inaugura un aspecto crucial para entender su arte: el trabajo en serie.
