San Pedro Springs

The Zuni admired the silver jewelry made by the Navajos, such as Old Smith , so they began trading livestock for instruction in working silver. On March 8 the San Antonio Light reported: We noticed a great improvement in the main building, which as been enlarged and renovated.

Brownsville Station: 1860s ~ Bagdad by Théodore Gentilz

Another legend that persists to this day concerns a tunnel that once connected the Alamo and San Pedro Springs Park. They are, in effect, our bridge from the near-present to the prehistoric past-in some cases, the eye-witness accounts of the activities we see represented in artifacts and archeological sites.
