This survey will help UCC advocate for the support of our community! The movement of Ukrainians between the borders of the United States and Canada was not uncommon during this time; in fact, Luciow 1979 tells a story of her grandmother, who came to America in 1912. Only about one-fifth of the Ukrainians in Canada would come from Ukrainian lands controlled by the tsarist empire until 1917 and by the Soviets thereafter.

Montreal's Ukrainian community celebrates at annual festival

The growing awareness or identity of the Ukrainians was motivated at first by a desire and opportunity to assert themselves as a distinct ethnic entity which had a language culture and tradition of its own, even though it had no independent country; later it was also motivated by the desire of the Ukrainians to take part in Canadian life, for they had decided that they would be staying in Canada permanently. The immigration propaganda fell upon very fertile grounds. We write this also in memory of Breonna Taylor, Ahmaud Arbery, Regis Korchinski-Paquet, Tony McDade and countless others, whose senseless deaths are the result of a long history of state and systemic violence against Black Lives.

They also began to organise educational hostels for Ukrainian students, whose residents attended high schools, teacher training colleges and the University and also received instruction in Ukrainian subjects. Together they provided the immigrants, who were mostly illiterate and lacking in national awareness, the first leadership in educational, community and religious affairs. These were mostly seeking asylum from Soviet persecution having played an active part in Ukraine's independence movement.
