The morbidity and mortality among these children is greatest when the children are most numerous in one family.

Safe Motherhood Strategies

The researchers presented their findings during the November 2000 EC meeting in Brussels offering the basis for the lively discussions and for the EC strategy paper.

Safe Motherhood Strategies

When parents are older, and particularly when the mother is worn out by frequent pregnancies and often weakened because obliged to work in mill, factory, or workshop up to the very day of confinement, the child will come into the world with lessened vitality, its main inheritance being a physiological poverty. Without their commitment to extensively review the literature on the specific topics and to draw upon their personal experiences, this volume would not have seen the light.
