1964 Daimler SP250 'Dart'

One of those far flung British misses, however, the outlier that proves the theory, has to be the Daimler SP250.

1960 Daimler SP250 'Dart' Restoration

The 2½ litre V8 engine used in the SP250 was used by Jaguar to power the smaller saloon Daimler had wanted from the start.

Daimler Classic Cars for sale

Very Rare Ex-Metropolitan Police car. Full-width bumpers with over-riders were now fitted as standard, where previously they were a £33 option.

Daimler V8 engines

Quite the opposite: Lyons wanted Daimler for its production capacity to build more of his , rather than for its dated range of homely looking saloons. By following this route the engine would be cheaper to manufacture and he could introduce motorcycle engine practice when designing the cylinder head, drawing from experience acquired from his Thunderbird engine.

SP250 Upgrades

We have them to thank for some particularly great Jaguars, basically everything Aston Martin ever built, some Lotuses, and even a fair few MGs, Triumphs, and Austin Healeys. La intención es mostrar anuncios que sean relevantes y atractivos para el usuario y, por tanto, más valiosos para editores y anunciantes externos. Although it is just possible to substitute one for the other, it requires a good deal of alteration of mountings, exhaust piping, etc.

The Daimler Dart that never was

You can also buy the 16ft.
