History Of The Conquest Of México

Its factor was the Flenning Heinrich Paine, and it was manned by eighty Germans. It means a cover in various colours. All round the margin, and occasionally far in the lake, they behold little towns and villages, which, half-con- cealed by the foliage, and gathered in white clusters round the shore, looked in the distance like companies of wild swans riding quietly on the waves.

The men wear in their lips a great blue stone, like a draughtsman, and the women have their privities covered. The Mexicans, with whom our history is principally concerned, came also, as we have seen, from the remote regions of the North,—the populous hive of nations in the New World, as it has been in the Old. All this having been done, we Christians entered the town and slew a great number of people.
