Existentialism In Philip Larkin Poetry Analysis

Decidedly left-wing, postmodernism had both a nihilistic and a revolutionary ethos which resonated with a post-war, post-empire zeitgeist in the West. Almost all of them share a deep suspicion to a philosophy operating within reason as conceived of by the Enlightenment. History according to both views is the linear progress from a set beginning to a definite end the metaphysical salvation of man or the materialistic salvation of him in the future Communist society.
