It is quite as rude to offer what he brings to another lady.

Etiquette Tips for Families

If you're comfortable having basic conversations with a native English speaker, part 1 should not be too much trouble, however, you should still prepare for it. After paying a visit, you should write to your hostess as soon as you reach home again; thank her in this letter for her hospitality, speak warmly of the enjoyment you have had in your recent visit, and mention by name every member of the family, desiring to be remembered to all. Have both a feather bed and a mattress upon the bedstead, that she may place whichever she prefers uppermost.

Chinese Culture

The recitation includes questions, asking if any bhikkhu present is guilty of the offences. Mexicans resent this situation but at the same time admire the achievements of their northern neighbors. .
