Kandinsky Drawings

August Macke's life came to an abrupt end on 26 September 1914. Pace Gallery, New York, 1973. Softcover, unpaginated approx 24 pp.

Art prints by August Macke

He designed costumes and decorations before he went on journeys to Belgium, Italy, France, Holland and Switzerland, in order to be able to gather ever new artistic impressions - and so it came to the journey to Tunis, Hammamet and Kairouan. He attends an exhibition with works of Franz Marc in 1910, that fascinates him so much that he decides to visit the artist in the Upper Bavarian town of Sindelsdorf, which marks the beginning of a close friendship, their lively exchange of ideas is documented in numerous letters.
