Audit of the Parliamentary Returns Process

The question for this Parliament is whether it will respect the results of the election in Scotland or whether it will ignore them and aim to govern without the consent of the people. The Government obviously sympathise with those families dealing so courageously with challenging conditions, particularly in their children. After years of political in-fighting during the , Parliament deposed James II in 1689 and his eldest daughter Mary and her husband William of Orange ascended to the throne.
