Wynter, Bryan, 1915

There is some time staining to the sheet.

Bryan Wynter biography

The works of art offered for sale from the Mrs Gough-Cooper Private Collection offer us both a personal portrait of a great visionary and impresario: a glimpse of Demarco from one who knew him well and shared his vision; and a reminder of the innovative role played by the Richard Demarco Gallery in making this period such a seminal moment in Scotland's artistic development.

Bryan Wynter, Oceanic, 1962

At first, Bryan Wynter worked figuratively, but by 1956 he had evolved a dynamic and more abstract style. Despite his self-imposed isolation, Wynter was a very sociable artist, enjoying the community of artists around St Ives including Ben Nicholson, Barbara Hepworth, Peter Lanyon and John Wells along with many poets.

Dear Bryan Wynter by W. S. Graham

. There are some creases and handling marks, most apparent in the upper left corner and along the right vertical edge. Condition Report: This work on paper was tabbed to the mount and has now come away and dropped down in the frame, where the tabs were applied now shows two sepia toned stains, otherwise the work looks good, possibly one or two tiny dirt marks but most appear to be on or underneath the glass rather than on the work itself, plain white card mount and slim gilt frame with some rubbing at the edges.

Michael Bird on Bryan Wynter and St Ives

Bryan Wynter's 'Landscape, Zennor'

The hardness of this region became a fundamental component of his existence. He had been a founding member of the short lived but influential Dublin based White Stag Group, a collection of like-minded artists and musicians including the British emigres Neville Johnson and Stephen Gilbert. There are many strong biographies that you may refer to on our website, such as Cecilia Beaux, Edward Hopper, and Paul Sample.

Brian Wynter

There is some flattening and an element of impasto in the lower left quadrant. Byles is married to Jacinth and has two sons, Pavel and Yannick. The dry stream bed, carved and hollowed, remains.
