Reflections on Hanging

Lynchings were one part carnival and another part revival service. Rivers, mountains, animals, and natural things that are useful for a human being are revered in Hinduism. Jones, CEO of Public Religion Research Institute, in his book White Too Long documents after exhaustive and comprehensive research that the single greatest indicator of racialized attitudes in America is whether you belong to a white church.

Best of Daily Reflections: An Invitation to Hang in There with God

All our lamas and frequently remind us of the need to really consider these topics in depth.

This Good Friday, I'll be at the hanging tree

Or will it simply perpetuate the causes for samsara? With each death of a loved one, with each passing day, life forces us to confront this reality again and again.

Catholic Daily Reflections

I found the finality of death so intense, and in a way, so terrifying.
