The Writings of James Cahill

This is not the place to make that argument once again; I have made it at length in a widely-circulated correspondence with two colleagues, and can now refer, for a vastly superior explication and exemplification of such an approach, to Michael Baxandall's recent Patterns of Intention: On the Historical Explanation of Pictures Yale University Press, 1985.

Válka v obrazech

Fudan University in Shanghai, the other of the two great comprehensive universities in China, has a program in museum studies, of which art history is a component, and plans to expand this into a college, within which art history will be strengthened. I found the drunk turned out to be a very handsome young man, with my own age, we each introduce their own life, I remark, in the fishing village and said to him again, he was also interested to take a look at the table, I kang backpack out a few ten electronic table to show them that the young woman took one of them put it down, I simply gave her.
