Where Are We Going

In the beginning, chemical compounds developed in liquid water and became bacteria, which over millions of years were transformed into eukaryotic cells, containing a nucleus and organelles enclosed by a plasma membrane. The question is how long we can wait for that sort of sanity while the tyrants consolidate power in an insane world. God is about to birth something glorious.

Faithlife

It is now high time that humans shed their harmful arrogance and finally realized that peaceful coexistence, mutual support and shared responsibilities for our vulnerable biosphere is not only our raison d'être as human beings, but a necessity for the survival of our entire planet. The pandemic has wrecked havoc on our way of being and its impact will remain huge and all-encompassing.

To all who are thirsty I will give freely from the springs of the water of life.

Where are We Going?

Where are we going as a church? It is true that one is not a good judge of one's own work, nevertheless I believe that this canvas not only surpasses all my previous work, but that I will never do anything better or even like it. Lord knows it is not done like a Puvis de Chavannes: sketch after nature, preparatory cartoon, etc. Let each state as currently configured or reconfigured develop its economic and social system in its own way, with the United States being a bulwark of defense and a free trade zone for central North America.
