A number of scholars, including Qāḍī Zakariyyā al-Anṣārī in his commentary on Ṣaḥīḥ al-Bukhārī and Shams al-Dīn Ibn Khallikān al-Shāfi'ī in his Wafayāt al-A'yān, considered him to be a Ḥanafī. Thirdly and fallaciously, the Khārījites are treated by both non-Muslim academics and numerous groups who have sectarian bias and enmity towards the Salafī way as being amongst the ranks of the Salafīs. So, one wonders: why is Shaykh Ibn Taymiyyah so panicky about this hadīth? Treating what is not a sin to be a sin.
