Examples: Zeke vs F6F, Corsair, Wildcat, Buffalo, or Avenger. Getting someone who flew the planes of WWII to rate them and run through theoretical combat matchups of various combinations of them is a great idea and they got the perfect guy to do it. The squadron had a total of fourteen aces on its roles.

Eric M. Brown Books

I had recently finished and greatly enjoyed a book by World War II flyer and Royal Navy Captain Eric Brown where he discussed flying 33 different World War II Luftwaffe aircraft.

DUELS IN THE SKY: WORLD WAR II NAVAL AIRCRAFT IN COMBAT

Chance Vought F4U Corsair, Vol. Jack Jones in his P-400, as he employs his bird-hunter instinct in the pursuit and destruction of the deadly metallic vultures of the enemy.
