A Double-Cork refers to a rotation in which a snowboarder inverts or orients themselves sideways at two distinct times during an aerial rotation. The rotation mimics a half-cab leading to McTwist, and is named after freestyle legend of Norway. On top of all of that, these ultra-wide frameless goggles are awesome to look at, and even better to look through! Nose-block Similar to a tail-block, but performed by standing on the nose while grabbing the tail of the board.
