My question is, should I tell my husband about the father of our little girl, or should I pray that my ex-lover just keeps quiet about it? The pressure to perform—and succeed—early on. But taking care of yourself is a necessity, not a luxury.

We Stayed Together for the Kids — It Works for Us

She just lately has taken the 2 year old out with her to friends houses at late hours. Those whose parents had been in groups of either type were doing better academically and having fewer behavioral and emotional difficulties than the children whose parents received no support. Because your child may have a very different temperament than yours, they may not always respond well to your suggestions—helpful as you think they may be.
