manpower—customarily common immediately after the completion of harvest—proved obsolete when confronted by well dug-in defenders with modern weapons. According to widely reported accounts, substantial programmes of depopulation have been conducted in these Afghan provinces: Ghazni, Nagarhar, Lagham, Qandahar, Zabul, Badakhshan, Lowgar, Paktia, Paktika and Kunar.

American History B Flashcards

Hundreds of thousands of higher-income farmers, called kulaks, were rounded up and executed, their property confiscated. The building now used for the embassy was constructed by in the late 1850s. They were the personal bodyguards for General Secretary Taraki.

Afghan War

In a few years, Massoud and his forces were fighting the Taliban, and he had become an enemy of Osama bin Laden.

America's The Legacy of the Iraq

It seems doubtful, however, that Roosevelt had much choice. Despite the CIA's doubts on Massoud he nevertheless became a key MI6 ally and would become an effective fighter.
