..... There is no other way. If you take by that literal meaning, then you have committed blasphemy, and if you deny it, then how do you claim to take by the literal meaning? Anything a person can imagine, Allah is different from it.

“Navavidha Bhakti”

If you take by its literal meaning, then 'as-saq' in Suratal-Qalam, ayah 42, is a 'shin' which is a part made up of flesh, bones, muscle, and nerves. . .

The act of listening itself becomes worship of the lord and the process of shravanam becomes effective as a form of devotion, leading us to liberation. How do we understand true bhakti?
