Transnational families, migration and gender : Moroccan and Filipino women in Bologna and Barcelona

By the early nineteenth century, the emerging bourgeois value system affirmed the new civil society and the market place as exclusively male realms. This also allowed healthcare providers in the public sector to refuse abortion and contraceptive care. This important volume offers both a revised gendered history of civil society and a program for making it more egalitarian in the future.

Others have proposed a change of direction and a more or less exclusive focus on images and texts. She shows how a project intended to benefit women, through teaching them literary and agricultural skills, fails to provide them with any of the promised resources.

Dr Elisabetta Zontini

Instead of focusing on either western or eastern Europe, this book investigates the similarities and differences in diverse parts of Europe. Contributors draw on research in prehistoric, historic, and contemporary sites in Europe, Asia, North Africa, and North America to explore the biological and cultural phenomenon of the fetus, raising methodological and theoretical concerns with the ultimate goal of developing a holistic anthropology of the fetus.
