Davidson and her two children are now residing in a pleasant home located on the south side of Park street, and it is her desire to rear and educate her little son and daughter in a fitting manner, that they may in the future add other laurels to the honored name of their father, a further account of whose ancestors may be found in the sketch of Frederick Davidson, of Beaver Falls, to be found in this volume. The book relates Kozel's experience teaching in the Roxbury section of Boston.
