To some extent a competitor to smaller-engined models of the Austin Rover Group's own Rover SD1, sales were low and the model was discontinued in 1984. Nought to 60mph times were woeful unless you went for the top of the range Vanden Plas -and even then cracking 100mph was dangerous.

Austin Ambassador 1982

Launched upon the prospect that continuing with the Austin Maxi as the flag-ship five-door was out-dated and pointless, with the Princess not practical enough to take the premium spot and the Montego still two years off, the tweaked Austin Ambassador was the product concocted to fill the stopgap.
