Anti

The transparency of the provision of aid in Idlib has decreased. Consequently, on October 5, 1996, the conference adopted the Ottawa declaration which committed the participants to execute a plan of acting directed to the enhancement of resources and building-up an infrastructure to clear mines, assist victims and rehabilitating them. That this is a position that India has been keen to propagate is also noteworthy, since reasonably wide acceptance would give rise to a customary norm.

Afghanistan and Bangladesh are the only two countries that have signed the Mine Ban Treaty on September 11, 2002, and May 07, 1998 respectively in South Asia; however, 11 states have enacted national legislation.

Siting indiscriminacy: India and the global movement to ban landmines.

Although consistently indicating that it is committed to measures that would put an end to the dire human consequences that give content to the taboo, India continues to defend its use of AP landmines.

IPCS

In the mine-affected area of Jammu and Kashmir the State government has pledged to improve medical services in all health institutions in the State.
