Love poetry in Renaissance England

ENGL 470C : A critical examination of literary publication, research, and criticism in digital forms. A workshop course in publishing digital texts, principally online. Troie and Enéas have, moreover, a strong love interest, inspired by the Roman poet of love as a restless malady.

The Function of the Rhetoric of Maternity in the Representation of Female Sexuality, Religion, Nationality, and Race in Early Modern English Literature and Culture

Focusing on the principles of argumentation, exposition, and writing process, the course actively engages in writing workshops, developing students' proficiencies in peer-editing, essay writing, as well as research paper preparation and presentation. It contains a more complete list of rhetorical figures, as well as terms from classical literacy training which were the foundation of medieval schools and remained influential even during the educational reforms of the early modern era.

Romance

A man can make no figure without it, in parliament, in the church, or in the law; and even in common , a man that has acquired an easy and habitual , who speaks properly and accurately, will have a great advantage over those who speak incorrectly and inelegantly.

Romance

It was a time of danger and exile, of conspiracy and planned invasion, of war and bloodshed both on the battlefield and the scaffold , but also of impassioned argument, of the genesis of faith communities, and of a multiplicity of visions testing key tenets of belief. ENGL 318 : This course examines Canadian Literature written in the latter decades of the 20th century and into the 21st century.

English Course List

Yet even more important is the way in which this new theme is introduced: the devices appropriate to expounding an argument are here employed to allow a character in love to explore his own feelings, to describe his attitude to the loved one, and to explain whatever action he is about to take. This course prepares English Education majors to become effective teachers of literature at the secondary level.
