Dissonant Worlds is a thorough and readable study of one man's noble attempt to relate two cultures for the sake of Christian mission. In Dissonant Worlds Earle Waugh traces the remarkable career of Roger Vandersteene: his life as an Oblate missionary among the Cree, his intensive study of the Cree language and folkways, his status as a Cree medicine man, and the evolution of his views on the relationship between aboriginal traditions and the Roman Catholicism of the missionaries who worked among them. It combines what is best in historical research and field research work, drawing on the memory of Cree and MA c tis and of the priests and sisters who worked with Vandersteene.

Waugh is a professor of religious studies at the University of Alberta. Dissonant Worlds is a thorough and readable study of one man's noble attempt to relate two cultures for the sake of Christian mission. Europeans, who continue to have a romantic fascination with all things aboriginal, will no doubt relish this epic story of a native son.
