Andrew Fuller's Circular Letters to the Northamptonshire Baptist Association

It also seems likely that Mary Ann approached some of her neighbours and they too signed the petition. In the 15th century the Culpepers can be found settling their share of the living on feoffees and when Sir Alexander Culpeper sold his estate at Ashton to the Crown in 1537-8 the fine to fortify the conveyance included the advowson of a moiety of the church of Roade with the chapel of Ashton, although the sale deed itself referred only to the manor.

Roade

In 1795 Stephen Warwick left his farm to go to a larger holding on the Wake estate and his place was taken by Edward Campion, with no increase in rent. Similarly, Roade was said to contain 80 houses in the early 18th century, virtually the same figure as that returned in 1801, when the population was 345.

60th Annual Session

Phoebe married John Miller of Marefield in Leicestershire on 3rd April 1823 in Ringstead although in 1851 she, like her younger sister Lucy, is living with her husband who appears to also come from Mancetter in Warwickshire: It seems likely that the two sisters married two brothers.

Early Baptist Churches of Northamptonshire

Blunt, who paid £105, until in 1898 the farm was taken by W.
