The Self

They did not harm me but I never knew why I saw them, but that painting brings clarity to the vision. This energy, in itself infinite, is measured out to each person in a finite amount and bestowed as our basic working capital when we arrive on this planet. If a man, in dealing with another person, asserts that his action in relation to the other is pleasing to that person just because of his asserting that it is so, he is not realizing a true interpersonal relationship, and by no means can such behavior claim to be called love.

Kenosis: Letting Go — Center for Action and Contemplation

In God's dictionary, however, brokenness is a crucial characteristic for a Christian. For what follows here, see 65 ff.

Christian Kenosis

Last, Jesus emptied Himself of His divine knowledge. Only the second person of the Trinity has emptied himself.

‘Faith’ According to Luther Had Nothing to Do With Faith as Understood by Catholics

And this point brings us back to Christ, the living Word of God. We bear fruit when Christ lives His life in and through us Jn 15:5; Gal 2:20.

Christian Kenosis

The reformers concurred with him in this albeit neatly framed within a doctrine of the two natures, which was considered orthodox. Being given to love without expectation or self-seeking is no small task.

Kenosis: The Path of Self

It occurs solely in connection with the destruction of cities and submitting others to judgement.

Fr. Richard's Daily Meditation: Kenosis

Not being a professional exegete, one can often wonder about such debates among New Testament scholars: how on earth do they know all this? Acting on other thoughts leads us from peace and towards further disharmony and dissonance from our own Heart. It is painful to let go of them and the parent-child relationship that is important to us.

Cross of glory

Actually the true divinity and the true humanity of Christ is extremely important to him, because it is the only way in which the wonderful nature of the message of the gospel can truly be expressed, the message in which God and humanity exchange places and destinies. Did not the fathers and also the official documents of councils, popes, and e. We, too, have then emptied ourselves of our religious illusions, delusions, and allusions.
