Visual Field Test: How It Works and What the Results Mean

A red-capped bottle can be presented to each eye separately for observation of saturation differences, such as a faded or washed-out red.

They will then cover one eye with a card. It is safe for use, classified as a Class II laser and having power levels low enough to prevent harm to the eyes, but powerful enough to trace singlemode fibers for 4 km or more.

And in the end we will show you how to use an old cell phone's camera to detect light in a fiber optic system

Comparison between optical and digital blur using near visual acuity

If your pupils do not dilate, or if they constrict slowly, there may be a problem with one or both of your optic nerves. No part of this journal may be reproduced or transmitted in any form or by any means for any commercial purpose without permission in writing from ASCO. Your doctor may perform one or a combination of these tests to examine your visual field.
