

Builders claims under the JCT (1963) form of contract.

Chartered Institute of Building - COVID

Introduction

Most Construction is carried out under a standard form of contract with majority of commercial work using JCT.

A Contractor's obligations under a Contract to indemnify the Employer or to reinstate any damage to the Works and Site Materials are of no effect unless the Contractor has adequate funds.

It is normally a requirement of a Contract for insurance to be taken out to support the indemnity requirements of the Contract.

The impact on the site, both in terms of its physical impact on the works and also in terms of causing critical delay to the works as a whole, needs to be established. There are currently two Adjudication Agreements; one general agreement, and another for a named adjudicator.
