Discovering Buffalo, One Street at a Time

Returning back up Kensal Road to the location of the Narrow Boat pub and looking across the bridge is a rather unusual structure: This is an old water tower that was originally built in the 1930s to hold 5,000 gallons of water ready to use if parts of the adjacent gas works caught fire.

Planning and the historical townscape

I find that his approach provides for a simple solution to complex problems.

Possibly because of this competition, Francis set up his son in a lighter building business, with a property on the river in Rotherhithe.

Former hotel in Stafford set for redevelopment into care home, following sale through Christie & Co

He lived with his son in a house at 237 Lafayette Avenue. Always responsive and inspire confidence.

Commercial property: development in London

This allocation is provided specifically to meet the needs of existing companies within Northampton where there are insufficient sites of adequate size to meet their needs. New text will not give rise to development but instead relates to the amended Plan period. The Portsmouth naval base as well as the historic dockyard occupy much of the foreground of the photo.
