Der fliegende Holländer, WWV 63 (Wagner, Richard)

Ich darf dich nicht mehr seh'n, nicht an dich denken: hohe Pflicht gebeut's! Eine weitere Bühnenbearbeitung des Stoffes, The Flying Dutchman; or The Spectral Ship von , erschien 1829. ERIK O des Gehorsams, blind wie deine Tat! Is food and drink only for you? Woher dieser Bericht stammt, bleibt unklar.

Der Fliegende Holländer

Senta with a furious effort has torn herself free and has reached a projecting rocky ridge: from there she calls after the departing Dutchman with all her might. Elle dure une douzaine de minutes et sa forme en trois parties est facilement distinguable.

SENTA Ah, you doubt my faith? Here, come and drink with us! Senta makes a convulsive movement of pain. . .

Der fliegende Holländer (The Flying Dutchman)

As the Dutchman, has a vocal quality not sufficiently differentiated from 's, and although his singing is never less than adequate, he fails to convey the character's mythic dimensions. Tours of the National Theatre take place almost every day.

Die Frist ist um

DUTCHMAN deeply moved This maiden's image speaks to me as from the distance of time long past: as I had dreamed of it through eternities of dread, now I see it before my eyes. The Dutchman goes aboard his ship The curtain falls STEUERMANN Hallohe! This effect was the second striking moment of lighting virtuosity. SAILORS They don't drink, they don't sing; no light burns on their ship.
